Allegheny River Reservoir Will Be Expensive But Worthwhile

The booklet which is being circulated in the Allegheny valley relative to the flood control plans for the handling of flood water in the valley are of vast interest. The booklet gives some interesting data on the big project which will be built following the war. In part the booklet says relative to the project:

In too many instances the march of progress has meant disfigurement and destruction of nature's handiwork. In this case, however, the beauty of the upper Allegheny river will be increased by the provision of a flood control reservoir above Warren near Kinzua. The completion of this project will give to northwestern Pennsylvania in general and Warren county, in particular an outstanding recreational center.

Towering 210 feet from sound rock, a great concrete and steel dam will impound a gross capacity of 1,125,000 acre-feet of water or 360,000,000 gallons draining a tributary area of 2,190 square miles and having a surface area of 21,000 acres or 33 square miles. Bountifully stocked with fish this reservoir is bound to become the haven of many fishermen and its extensive shore line will provide attractive sites for cottages. It is also sure to become the center for boating, swimming and other aquatic sports.

As a unit for the complete flood protection program the upper Allegheny river reservoir is sometimes erroneously referred to as "just another unit" of this expansive control system. This is not true as the storage capacity if this reservoir alone will be greater than all others in this project combined.

In addition to its function as a recreation center and flood control unit, the water thus reserved will also be used for volume control in periods of drought and low water. It will also serve to reduce acidity and hardness of the water and dilute pollution in the Allegheny and upper Ohio rivers. These in themselves will prove of immense value to the population of over a million and a half persons alone who reside in the Allegheny basin and in attracting new industries that depend upon good water. Warren some years ago lost the great Talon Plant to Meadville due to the water of the river.

Although the construction of this reservoir will probably be part of the post-war program it is not too soon to enlist the support of those who grasp the great advantages to be derived therefrom. In this connection it should be borne in mind that an allotment of $35,700,000 of Federal funds will be necessary for this construction. The original estimate by the U. S. Army engineers was $31,700,000 to which $4,000,000 has been added for a ten foot raise in elevation. An initial allotment of $2,000,000 is needed for preliminary work with further allotments for construction.

Second year $7,000,000.
Third year $15,000,000.
Fourth year $11,700,000.
Annual cost for ordinary actual operation and maintenance is estimated at $85,000.

The spending of such sums will give this section a boost in business after the war that will cover a period of four years and undoubtedly lift this whole section out of any depression that may follow the war. The annual operation costs will also be largely expended in this section. Other projects that will follow the building of the dam will give further thousands of dollars to labor and industry in this section.

Juliano Observes Anniversary As Salesman of Life Insurance

Completing his 15th year of service with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Fete G. Juliano was honored with a banquet at Ruby's Tea Room in Youngsville on Saturday evening.

Adding interest to the party, Gilbert McCullough, assistant manager of the Warren staff, had received a letter from Mr. Juliano's son, S/Sgt. Angelo Juliano, U. S. Marine Corps, somewhere in the Pacific which was read by L. J. Stoddard. The young Juliano congratulated his father on the fine way he has conducted his business during the 15 years he has been associated with the company. He recalled the date his father entered the insurance business, when he was only eight years old, and expressed the wish that he could be present to witness the presentation of the 15-year service medal sent by the Metropolitan Home Office and given by Julius Blaha, manager of the Jamestown District.

Mr. and Mrs. Juliano each received a beautiful gift from the personnel of the local staff and expressed their appreciation of the honors bestowed upon them during the evening. They particularly thanked those who had come from a distance for the ceremonies.

After the presentations, the evening was devoted to cards and other games, concluding with expressions from the guests of good health and continued success for Mr. Juliano.

Warren Lays Plans To Give Aid Should a Flood Come

Plans were made Friday evening when a meeting was held at the control center of the various groups affiliated under the Co-ordinator of this county for disaster control. Known as the Disaster Panel the group is composed of the men who formerly handled emergency affairs here under the OOD set-up.

Discussion was held of the various features of a flood and the danger points in the county should there be a flood. Arrangements were made whereby points up and down the river could be aided. Chief of Police George Haehn who had a force of well drilled auxiliary police functioning during the danger of air raids has his group in tact and he will have them for use in any emergency that may arise. He will be assisted by Elmer James and will list all boats and other paraphernalia that may be required.

Fire Chief Charles Alabaugh will stand by with the firemen and the ropes of the department and other equipment such as the emergency truck towing the fire department boat trailer, etc., will be available. Auxiliary firemen were trained in a number of the manufacturing plants in the city and county will also be available provided they are not required to stand by in their own place of employment.

The medical units which had been organized under the OOD will use its supplies, cots, medical supplies, etc., under the direction of Kenneth Forsgren; Harry Christenson will have his air wardens again on the alert ready for response and he will check up immediately on them to learn how many are available as some have answered the call to arms and some have left the city. Calvin Barwis will be chief of transportation committee and will have cars ready for quick evacuation of persons caught by rising waters, station wagons to handle supplies of bedding, etc., and trucks for use.

Raymond Rapp will be in charge of communications over the county area both by telephone and short wave and will have short wave stations through the county ready for instant use.

C. C. Winans was present from the Red Cross which will also be ready to function with the disaster committee and all aid will be given the Red Cross in meeting any problems that may arise and the two groups will work closely aligned.

In addition the Civil Air Patrol will be available and Major Henry Walker will be in charge of this group. Should a flood come the co-ordinator will be at the Control Center at all times to assist in any capacity. Constant touch will be kept with Col. Lynn Adams at Harrisburg and any available material needed can be promptly secured. Boats from the Coast Guard can be secured in three hours should their need arise. The plans are complete in every way and Warren Disaster Panel will undoubtedly win as high approval in its work as the Warren Control Center which was known as the "West Point" of Control Centers in Western Pennsylvania.

Fire Marshall Investigates Local Tragedy

J. J. Hencheck, assistant state fire marshal, from the Pennsylvania State Police barracks at Butler, was in Warren Friday and Saturday assisting local officers in the investigation of the fatal blaze last Wednesday morning that took the lives of Mrs. Marie Clark Dillon, and her roomer and companion, Mrs. Edward Shanley, at 27 Walnut street.

Pvt. Hencheck, in company with Fire Chief Charles Alabaugh, Pvt. J. R. Krupiec, Chief of Police George Haehn and Coroner Ed Lowrey, went into all the details regarding the tragedy, and visited the scene of the fire several times during the inquiry. He secured statements from all witnesses involved and other information involving the deaths.

Little that had not previously been reported was brought out during the joint inquiry. An inspection of the home left no doubt but that the fire started in the dining room near a door leading to the parlor, probably from an overheated stove. It is believed that the intense heat caused a "flash" which probably set fire to all portions of the two rooms.

Plans Shaping For Annual Red Cross Fund Campaign

Every individual in Warren county is going to have an opportunity to contribute to the American Red Cross War Fund of $200,000 when the campaign opens on March 9th. Warren county's quota will be $42,000. An intensive drive will be conducted throughout the county between the period of March 9th and 14th. Hon. Allison D. Wade, who led last year's successful campaign, will again be the general chairman of this year's War Fund.

Assisting him will be practically the same group of volunteer leaders who worked so hard to make last year's War Fund the success it was. Heading the Industrial and Special Gifts Committee will be C. T. Conar and Chester S. Allen. E. H. Ley and B. V. Lesser will again lead the Commercial Division team. Mrs. E. G. Hamilton has again consented to take charge of the Women's Division that will comb the residential sections of the borough. She will be able to announce her list of workers sometime this week. This group has always been one of the most efficient to function and it's importance this year will be greater than ever.

Division "D", Chain Stores and National Firms, will be lead by L. F. Morlock; while Division "G", Government and School Employees, will get its impetus from the hands of J. G. Kossman who has been an untiring worker in many of the Red Cross War Funds. The large group of county workers, comprising Division "G", will be under the direction of Mr. Ray S. Thompson whose contact with all sections of Warren county have proved of inestimable value to Red Cross officials in years past. Mr. Thompson is already at work laying plans for a streamline committee which will reach into every nook and corner of the county. He has already gathered together a number of influential and loyal workers with more still to be found.

Due to the stress of war, the "pinch" of rationing and the element of time it is planned to make this year's War Fund Campaign as simple and effective as possible. There will be no dinners or elaborate social functions in connection with any of the meetings. Every effort that can be made will be made to save the time of each worker and the distance he or she must travel.

At present, subject perhaps to some slight changes here and there, it is planned to open the Warren County Red Cross War Fund with a meeting at the Y. W. C. A. (where all meetings will be held) on the night of Friday, March 9th. The first report meeting will be called for Monday, March 12th and the second, and final, meeting for Wednesday the 14th. Headquarters for the Campaign have been established in the Warren Bank and Trust Building, Room 503. Responsible persons are in charge there laying the groundwork for this year's War Fund.

The coming campaign will be the 4th War Fund Drive since this country has been at war. It will find over 4,000 Warren county men and women in service throughout the world and hardly a family in Warren county but who has some direct interest in some service man. The work that the Red Cross has done, is doing and still plans to do for these men is a matter of common knowledge and interest to thousands of Warren county homes. Letters, by the hundreds, reaching Warren tell of what the Red Cross has done throughout its far-flung lines of activity. The local Chapter of the American Red Cross feels that the goal of $42,000, slightly under that of last year, will be met promptly and cheerfully and that everyone will be glad to make his or her contribution when the War Fund drive officially gets under way. Remember the dates—March 9-14.

Wacs In Medical Unit Train In Outstandings Hospital Unit

Women of this area, who join the Women's Army Corps medical units in the general hospitals, will have the opportunity to select Ashford General Hospital, White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, for their station of initial assignment, it was announced by 1st Lt. Mary A. O'Connor, Commanding Officer of the Erie WAC Recruiting Office.

Under the new station and job assignment policy initiated by the WAC, this hospital may be chosen by women enlisting from Erie, Warren, Venango, Crawford, Forrest or Mercer counties. If new WAC enlistees do not desire to serve at Ashford General Hospital, they will be assigned by the War Department to one of the sixty general hospitals established in this country for the care of our wounded soldiers.

White Sulphur Springs is nestled in the Alleghany Mountains about 110 miles southeast of Charleston, and within a stone's throw of the Virginia state line. It lies west of the Jefferson National Forest, and within a few miles of the Greenbrier State Forest of West Virginia. Assignment to Ashford General Hospital will be made following a six weeks' basic training course and six weeks of study at an Army Medical Department enlisted technician school. Women who enlist in the WAC from one locality may join as a platoon of 15 members, to be assigned as a group to the hospital after completion of training. Thus they will serve side by side with their friends.

Work at the hospital will complete the training program. The WACS will receive one month of classroom work in the mornings, and application of their learning in the afternoons. Upon satisfactory completion of the training courses, WACS will receive technician ratings of Technician Fifth Grade.

The pay as Technician Fifth Grade is the same as that of a Corporal, $66 per month. There is an advance in pay for each advance in grade, the highest grade receiving $138 a month. In addition, each WAC is provided with food, clothing, quarters, medical and dental care, and she is entitled, as any other soldier, to the benefits of the "G. I. Bill of Rights". Some WACS will be used in a clerical or administrative capacity, but the ratings will be the same. It is anticipated, however, that at least 85 per cent of the women will be trained and used as technicians, either medical or surgical.

The need for medical technicians in the WAC is most urgent. The professional men and women in the Army Medical and Nurses Corps are working tirelessly with the greatest casualty load in the Army's history. Every moment and every ounce of energy are valuable in their work. The trained WAC—trained by the Army, or trained before her enlistment—takes a burden from the shoulders of an Army doctor or nurse.

On Tuesday, from 2 until 7 p. m., Lt. O'Connor and S/Sgt. Mary L. Gravel, Chief Clerk, of the WAC Recruiting Office in Erie, will maintain offices in the YWCA in Warren. They will be here to help you and to help our wounded men from overseas. We urge all women of this area to call or visit them about the WAC.

LOOK OUT — IT'S LOADED!

A purse packed with war-earned money is plenty dangerous today. If handled unwisely, it can blast prices sky-high. And leave us holding the bag... empty!

Easy-spending boosts prices all along the line. Because there's more money for fewer things. Like bidding-up the prices at an auction—way out of reason. Up—up—they go! Are you doing everything you can do to safeguard your security—and that of your entire family?

You can help keep prices down... prevent inflation... right now. By doing these three important things—

1. Buy only the things which you know you really need.
2. When you do buy, pay no more than ceiling prices. Pay your ration points in full.
3. Save! Buy and hold War Bonds to help pay for the war, insure your future security. Keep up your insurance.

THE FIGHT FOR LINCOLN'S IDEAL

One hundred and thirty-six years ago today Abraham Lincoln was born in the wilderness of a new nation "conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

It was his mission to guide that nation through the first great test of the truth of its conception, and to correct a great inequity which mocked the nobility of its dedication. In fulfilling that mission he made articulate the highest aspirations of his country, and bequeathed to it an example of charity and rectitude that has since served as an unfailing source of inspiration and strength.

Today his country is fighting, with the civilized world, for the same cause for which Lincoln struggled and died. It is at war with two nations conceived in bigotry and dedicated to the proposition that two peoples were created superior to other men, and thus are free to enslave and rule their fellows.

It has been a war to test whether these nations or any nations, so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. And though battles remain to be fought, the answer is already settled and the ideal of Lincoln is ascendant.

How different this world might have been if Lincoln had not lived we cannot know. But we do know that the influence of his life has permeated the life of America and, through America, has shaped the thinking of men to whom Lincoln is no more than a name.

Lincoln led his country to the threshold of freedom, equality and union. Neither this country nor the world has yet crossed that threshold into a life that embodies those qualities in perfection. But they remain as goals of world endeavor. And though much painful struggle lies ahead, we at least can see that the new order will be constructed more on the lines of the Gettysburg Address than of Mein Kampf.

SYLVANIA BASIC ELEMENTS OF PRODUCTION

Eleven basic factors necessary for successful production both in war and in peace are stressed in the current issue of The Beam, employees' magazine of Sylvania Electric Products Inc.

The factors stressed are: People, Good Management, Plants, Equipment, High Quality, Competitive Cost, Good Use of Time and Materials, Methods, Safety and Intelligent Cooperation. Pictographs illustrating the article emphasize that orders can be lost because of price margins as small as 50 cents a thousand and that lower selling prices greatly increase the number of potential customers. The value of high quality in obtaining civilian as well as military orders and for obtaining repeat orders is also emphasized in the article which states:

"In war: The generals do the planning; the soldiers do the fighting.

"In business: The Management does the planning, the foreman who is 'top sergeant in the Battle of Production' gives the instructions and the Employees do the producing.

"It's the soldier in the ranks who wins the battles, and the employee in the plant and office who puts out the product.

"The individual employee builds the quality, contributes by efficient work, elimination of waste of materials or time and by constructive suggestions to Competitive Cost.

"Every employee helps contribute to the success or failure of the Company and to the permanency and opportunity in his or her job."

HARD-FOUGHT WEEK-END

The battle of Germany—last act of the European war—has on the whole gone well for the United Nations over a hard fought week-end.

The western Allies, in intensive preparation for their projected all-out offensive, fought their way into two strategic communications centers—Kleve, in the north, and Pruem, a hundred miles to the south. So great was the threat produced by these two attacks that the Germans were reported rushing reinforcements from the eastern theatre.

On the other side of the Reich the Red armies continue to batter into the country over a wide front, especially on their northern and southern flanks. The Moscow radio views the situation so optimistically today that it says the Nazi fighting machine has been smashed and can't stand up to the Soviet pressure.

All this is of course vastly encouraging, but in the opinion of war analysts, it is important that despite this gigantic military squeeze the Hitlerites are continuing to display determination to fight to a finish. Knowledge that defeat is inevitable hasn't yet broken that determination, even though the very foundations of Berlin are shaking.

Scare buying is likely to bring coffee rationing back, says a government official. That is, if too many little pigs go to market!

Many Out to Hear Address By Rossman

Probably the largest number of men at a St. Paul Brotherhood meeting in a year was present Thursday evening to hear a thought-provoking presentation of one of our nation's most vital problems by John G. Rossman, superintendent of schools.

If, as is claimed, this is the best managed war in our country's history, so also is constructive interest shown by our government in the future welfare of our service personnel as it affects his or her mental, physical and material well-being for years to come, the most far-reaching ever attempted by any nation.

Mr. Rossman has given and is giving this subject such intelligent and thorough investigation that every phase is presented in an authoritative manner, helpful to every individual American.

This problem deserves serious consideration of church, school and state and Mr. Rossman, as school superintendent, teacher of one of the church's larger men's Bible classes and in part responsible for the cost of education to our state, feels intensely his responsibility and deserves the community's commendation for his constructive efforts.

Robert Swanson was in charge of the business meeting and Roger Johnson conducted devotions. Hosts were J. A. Johnson, C. J. Johnson, J. W. Johnson and Roger Johnson.

YESTERDAY: Mike O'Shane's impersonation of the dead Tom Curran is brought out into the open by St. Wacker, proprietor of the local dance hall. He makes good his threat to have a warrant sworn out against the redhead for the murder of Curran. Gipping the posse sent after him the alibi, Mike comes upon Viola Thornton on foot and about to be trampled to death in the middle of a milling herd of cattle. He rescues her for the second time. Hoping to enlist her father's aid against Wacker, the redhead asks her to take him to her spread.

Chapter 7

SIDE by side they jog-trotted over the smooth slopes, Viola Thornton prattling inconsequently. Apparently, her recent experience was already forgotten.

"Say," interjected O'Shane, "what's the idea of calling me 'Bulldog'?"

Her amused eyes ran over his craggy features. "Fie, Mr. Curran, why ask? Take a look in a mirror! That set jaw, that obstinate mouth and that ferocious squint! Now don't be annoyed, you're really quite handsome—in a rugged sort of way."

"Quit the kidding!" he growled gruffly.

"Did I embarrass the poor man?" she mocked. But O'Shane rode in silence, his thoughts on the interview ahead.

"PICTURESQUE, isn't it?" said

Viola, as the Turkey ranch house came into view. A long, one-story structure of adobe and rock, it nestled at the foot of a great mesa, whose precipitous cliffs towered a hundred feet about it.

"I'd call it damned pretty," growled O'Shane.

"It doesn't satisfy Dad," sighed the girl. "He finds it difficult to settle down. Once he was a general in the Peruvian Army. The president was assassinated. Nothing unusual! We lost everything and barely escaped with our lives. Then he became a colonel in the Mexican rurales, until they had a revolution and mother was killed. He quit fighting and tried ranching in the Argentine, but something happened, I think it was an earthquake. So he came up here."

"You've been around some!" commented O'Shane.

"Not so much," she replied regretfully. "I've spent most of my time in a Boston boarding school—a horrible fate!"

Riding up to the gallery that breasted the front of the house, they dismounted. Viola hurried indoors, while O'Shane rolled a smoke and debated his approach.

Viola reappeared, followed by a straight-backed, soldierly looking man, with close-cropped, greying hair. He was taller than O'Shane and clean-shaven, except for a precisely clipped military mustache. His plaid shirt, open at the neck, revealed a bronzed, sinewy torso. He advanced with hand outstretched.

"I understand you saved my daughter from injury, perhaps death, twice today, Mr. Curran. I am grateful, deeply grateful."

"Oh, Dad!" remonstrated Viola. "Guess she didn't know it's dangerous to be caught afoot in cattle country," smiled O'Shane.

His voice changed, deepened with urgency. "Say, Colonel, I want to talk with you—pronto!"

"Step inside!" invited Thornton courteously.

O'SHANE found himself in a small room, evidently the Colonel's den. Against one wall three straight back chairs were lined up with military preciseness.

Viola rushed in after them, breathing rapidly.

"The Colonel eyed his daughter questioningly. 'I understand that Mr. Curran—' he began.

"Let her stay!" broke in O'Shane. "She'll get the story anyway, and it will be twisted aplenty."

Thornton nodded briskly and seated himself in the swivel chair. Sliding open a drawer of the desk, he produced a box of cigars and tendered them to the redhead. "Sit down!" he invited.

"I talk better standing, and my name ain't Curran," returned O'Shane waving the cigars away.

"Not Tom Curran!" squealed Viola, gazing at him with wide-open eyes.

Briefly, he told them of his imp-

Thornton listened in silence, thoughtfully chewing his cigar. Viola sat fascinated, literally devouring every word.

"Just like a novel!" she breathed, as the redhead ended his narration.

Her father said nothing, but sat, with straight back, pondering over his visitor's story.

"Well?" demanded O'Shane impatiently, as the seconds dragged. At any moment he expected to hear the shouts of a posse outside.

Thornton rose slowly to his feet. "I'm sorry, Mr.—Mr.—"

"Mike O'Shane's the name."

"Mr. O'Shane. Although I am in your debt for rescuing my daughter I have only your word for what transpired in the desert. You admit impersonating Curran, a criminal act. You imply that you had previously been a fugitive. You made serious accusations against men well known in this community."

"Oh, Dad!" remonstrated Viola. "I am afraid that I cannot see eye to eye with you," continued Thornton, ignoring his daughter's flashing eyes. "I must ask you to leave this ranch—right now."

O'SHANE shrugged his shoulders hopelessly. His gamble had failed.

In silence the three filed along the corridor and out upon the gallery.

"Where's my horse?" O'Shane glanced quickly around.

"I had one of the boys take him to be fed and watered, with Sugar," returned Viola. She tripped lightly down the gallery steps.

"Why," she cried stopping and pointing excitedly, "here are some more visitors!"

O'Shane swivelled around. Not half a mile distant, a compact body of riders were loping towards the avenue of cottonwoods. He recognized Brazos' figure in the lead.

Like a hunted animal, his eyes darted around, seeking a means of escape. There was none. Before he could find one and mount his missing pony the posse would be upon him. Retreat was cut off by the great mesa whose rocky walls towered high behind the ranch.

College Club Has Fine Address On Germany of Today

Following the routine business meeting of the College Club, held at the home of Mrs. William Glassman, Fourth avenue, Mrs. Arnold Oppen introduced to the members Mrs. Hans Kronheim, of Jamestown, who spoke on the Germany of today.

She prefaced her address with a statement that she had spent most of her life in Germany, leaving there in 1939, and that the Germany of today and the Germany she knew as a child are so different.

She stressed the fact that Nazism in its education has declared war on culture and, supported by business and the militarists, has succeeded in becoming all-powerful because of the indifference or apathy of the middle classes.

She stated that the Allies must provide for Germany a strong counter-effective education if they are to bring about a new order in Germany that will make possible a lasting peace.

Her own personal opinion is that it will prove very difficult because of the thoroughness with which the Nazi machine has carried out its "education for might" program, in which power has been substituted for all emotions that make for a peace-loving nation.

Concluding the evening's program the social committee served refreshments.

Record Number Turn Out For Floor Show Given By Jamestown Young Folks

There was a record attendance for the teen age community party at Beatty school Friday evening. Warren young people expressed their appreciation for the fine entertainment supplied by the Jamestown young people from "The Rec", the Jamestown High School recreation center.

Thirty-five young people came down on the bus from Jamestown, Miss Anderson and Miss Ottoson, their advisors, and two others came by car. The orchestra instruments were transported by the Coca Cola Company of Jamestown, which supplied a truck and driver for the occasion.

Bud Ulf's Orchestra furnished the music for the dancing all evening. At ten o'clock the Jamestown group presented a floor show, which supplied excellent entertainment for about an hour. Jerry Lawson acted as master of ceremonies for the floor show entertainment, which had previously been presented in The Rec at Jamestown. All of the specialties were enjoyed, particularly the amusing Blind Date act, conducted by Ginny Thomas. The soloists were Ingrid Persson and Julia Andrea. The Four Chords was another good act.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Longshore, of Kane spent the weekend in this city with friends.

Frank Clemons, a patient in Warren General Hospital since last August, was discharged on Saturday and returned to his home, 315 Fourth avenue.

Suzanne Gay Spator, three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Spator, 203 Alexander street, has been brought home from Erie, where she has been a patient at Hamot Hospital for the past three months.

Mrs. B. H. Taylor, Conewango avenue, is leaving Tuesday morning for New York City, to spend a week in the interests of her Tiny Gift Shop.

Mrs. William Zafropoulos and children, Marie and Billy, of Corry, spent Sunday at the M. J. McMahon home, East street.

Dr. E. R. Anderson, Central avenue, is in Pittsburgh this week taking a course in Silt-Lamp-Microscopy. He expects to be back Friday.

John W. Wilson, acting district forester, is in Mont Alto for a week's refresher course at forestry school, studying the timber production war project.

Commander Norman M. Miller, U. S. N., a former Boy Scout, recently received his eleventh decoration and is called "the most decorated man in this year".

Dragons Upset By Rockets, 33-25, At Titusville; Hold First Place In Section Race

Talk of a championship basketball game became a little less frequent following the Warren Dragons' stunning 33-25 defeat at Titusville Friday night.

The loss, however, does not damp the local combination of the Blue and White Rockets and the Rockets and White Dragons. The Rockets and White Dragons' heels in case of another slip such as was noticed last Friday.

Joe Scalise, the league high scorer, was held to a meager four points and Jack Eaton, 6' 4" giant center, twisted his ankle early in the second period and was forced out of the game. Eaton will be unable to return to the court for at least two weeks. These two incidents were just two of the worries which confronted Coach Joseph A. Massa at the Colestock Gymnasium Friday night last. The Dragon mentor was also minus the services of Al Babcock, who pulled several muscles in practice Thursday. After Eaton's injury, Babcock dressed and went into the battle which was a great aid to the Dragon machine.

The Blue and Whites romped off to an early 6-1 lead, and it looked as though the boys were away on their sixth league victory. A forgotten man entered the picture which turned the tide. Skip Love, fast, tricky Rocket forward, who led the Titusville scoring column with 12 markers, dropped in two rapid-fire baskets which put the Rocket crew back into the thick of the battle. At the end of the first quarter, it was 8 all. The loss of big Eaton in the second period and the failure of Joe Scalise being able to connect, hind-

Terrors Take First Half Of Junior League

The Terrors copped the first half title of the Boys Basketball League on Saturday afternoon at the YMCA with a decisive 35 to 25 win over the Flyers in the second game and the Ducks gained second place in the league with a 33 to 25 win over the Wildcats in the first game of the afternoon.

After the first quarter the Terrors were never in danger of the Flyers as they held a safe lead from there on to the end of the game. The Flyers tried hard to overtake the Terrors but the individual style of playing of the Flyers was no match for the smooth working teamwork of the Terrors. Scalise and Swanson led the Terrors in scoring with 10 points each and Eckstrom of the Flyers led the losers with 10 points.

The Ducks and Wildcats staged a terrific battle for second place in the league in the first game of the afternoon with the Ducks taking the decision. The Wildcats grabbed a 10 to 8 lead in the first quarter but the Ducks cut it down to 14 to 12 by half time. With Kuhr and Bearfield of the Ducks finding the range in the third quarter, the Ducks took the lead which they steadily increased during the fourth quarter. The Wildcats put up a game fight in the last quarter but the Ducks were not to win and would not be denied. Hill of the Wildcats took the scoring honors with 15 points with Shattuck of the Ducks taking second honors with 14 points.

The final standing of the teams for the first half:

| | Won | Lost |
|----------|-----|------|
| Terrors | 3 | 0 |
| Ducks | 2 | 1 |
| Wildcats | 1 | 2 |
| Flyers | 0 | 3 |

The second half will get under way next Saturday with the Terrors taking on the Wildcats in the open and the Flyers tangling with the Ducks in the second game.

Behind the Lines

The current basketball season has seen advocates come forward with many suggestions which they claim would better the game, among them being a new scoring plan and another to permit more body contact, thereby cutting down the number of fouls. The new scoring plan was first suggested by Eddie Abramowski, Erie Tech football coach, who proposed a three-point basket if made outside a zone 21 feet from the hoop. The standard two-points still holds good for shots from within this zone and one-point for a foul throw. The whole idea of the new scoring system was to break up the zone defense. By shooting outside the zone setup by the opposing players he believed the defensive team would be forced out and then the offensive club could work the ball in for closer shots.

Dr. H. C. Carlson, Pitt coach, is among the leaders in the drive to permit more body contact. He feels it is time that basketball officials get together whether the game is or is not a contact sport. Everybody knows this is a contact game and it is about time to admit it. Right here in our own high school games this season we have seen too much whistle tooting on the part of the officials in some games and in others not enough. The big question seems to lie in where the officials should draw the line and strike a happy medium.

There is considerable talk in the basketball circles in Warren concerning the officiating of the local scholastic hardwood contests on the Beatty court. It seems that the talk is directed mainly at the official's part of the game and the question is, "Why aren't there two officials in important games, rather than one?" Well, sir, your guess is as good as mine, but maybe I can offer a few of my own conclusions. In the first place, just because other schools use two officials is no omen for the Warren setup to have two; and in the second place, with the shortage of registered officials as great as it is, the High School athletic men are having a hard enough time securing one referee. If there is an exceptionally important game then o. k. to the two officials, but otherwise, no go. Also included in the argument for the two officials is the reasoning that the basketball games are taking in more money this year than they ever have; so, with that money, what about two refs? Yes, that's right, but it costs just that much more this year for equipment, etc.

This Friday brings to Warren the long-awaited battle between the Bradford Owls and the Warren Dragons on the Beatty court, which fans are hoping will turn into a local victory. Coach Harold Bruce has been having his troubles again, but more this year than in the past. Three teams have cancelled games on his Red and Black. But that's just part of his worry. The Owls took a distinct pasting by Erie Tech on the Owls' home court about a month ago, and that taste didn't go well with the fans, as well as some of the players. That loss caused the dropping from the squad of Billy Ventura, veteran Bruce protege who evidently didn't like to mince words. Maybe Ventura's absence will aid the locals in exhibiting a better showing here, and maybe, too, they can revenge the 34-19 setback suffered at Bradford.

Scoring Race Tightens As Finals Nears

Joe Scalise still maintained the top position in the Big Ten scoring race of Section Two although he collected only four points Friday night. Al Chisholm, Meadville ace, jumped into second place replacing Cooley of Franklin, who dropped to third. The Big Ten are as follows:

| Hammerbeck, W | 6 | 21 | 4 | 13 | 46 |
| Panas, T | 5 | 16 | 8 | 14 | 40 |
| D. Chisholm, M | 6 | 12 | 14 | 29 | 38 |

| Anderson, T | 5 | 11 | 13 | 22 | 35 |
| Phillips, f. | 6 | 11 | 13 | 27 | 35 |

Titusville's Junior Varsity averaged an earlier defeat at the hands of the local second stringers Friday night by handing the future varsity Dragons a 28-25 setback. Both teams were evenly matched for m the field, but the Rockets were more accurate from the foul line.

The Warren quint failed to get off to their usual start, and was behind, 14-10, at half time. They closed the gap in the third period and the two teams battled down the line on even terms in the final stanza, but the Rockets slipped away in the final minutes to cop the verdict. Jim Scalise paced the local aggregation with ten points.

Smash Takes Ukraine Army Almost To Bober River and Within 22 Miles of Slovakia

(From Page One)

The fall of Deutsch Krone, 63 miles from the Baltic, virtually settled the fate of the encircled German garrison in the railroad town of Schneidemuehl, 12 miles to the southeast.

The Germans said the Russians had broken into the center of Schneidemuehl.

Below Breslau, the German communiqué reported a strong new strike on the upper Oder between Bielsko in Polish Silesia and Ratibor in German Silesia toward the Moravian gateway to Vienna and Prague.

Above Breslau the Russians had captured Liegnitz, a transportation center 40 miles west and slightly north of Breslau.

BULLETIN

London, Feb. 12—(P)—Bielsko, a German bastion 27 miles south of Katowice in southwestern Poland, has been captured, Marshal Stalin announced tonight.

Almost within Russian grasp were the Silesian cities of Schweidnitz, Striegan, Pauer, Goldberg, among the last of the towns before Konev reaches Czechoslovakia in his southwestward drive.

While the Russians consolidated their Oder river positions for a frontal assault due east of Berlin, the new Soviet gains to the south increased the peril to the German capital by clamping a hold on a 27-mile section of the Berlin-Breslau trunk railway and threatening momentarily to spill across the four-lane superhighway between the two cities.

Konev's big drive and the capture yesterday of Deutsch-Krone, Nazi citadel and 12-way road hub in Pomerania, by units of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army, prompted the Moscow radio to declare early today that Hitler's war machine has been smashed and cannot stand up to the continuous, widening Soviet pressure.

That pressure, stepped up by the Russians during the week-end, brought other important gains at the northern and southern anchors of the 500-mile eastern front.

A Swiss radio report today said Soviet troops had swept to the outer defense area of Danzig after capturing Elbing. To the south in Polish Silesia the Russians, by official Moscow account, drove to within 25 miles of Moravska Ostrava, the Pittsburgh of Czechoslovakia.

Konev's great Silesian offensive, meanwhile, was folding the German southern flank back against the mountainous Sudeten frontier of Czechoslovakia and threatening to cut communications between that occupied country and Berlin.

Two Superfortresses collided over the target and exploded, breaking in half. No parachutes were seen to drop from the planes. Two other bombers possibly were lost to enemy fire.

This was the first attack on the Nakajima plant, oldest privately owned aircraft company of Japan. It produces a substantial percentage of all enemy aircraft.

The mission was the roughest ever experienced by Lt. (No initials given) Kresge of Nanticoke, Pa., a pilot who previously had served 18 months on the Solomon and Hebrides.

"The Superfort is a real airplane," he said. "We came all the way home on three engines."

Four calls were made by Lt. Kresge on the way home, telling the base he was "ditching" and "abandoning" the plane.

He said he made the first call when "wouldn't keep up and couldn't feather a propeller; the second when an engine ran away; the third when an engine caught fire and the fourth when a propeller burned because it was windmilling so fast."

"Still we came in and landed with three engines and three props," he said.

PLANS AT POST—German prisoner of war, one of 75,000 captured soldiers now working for Uncle Sam's Army, practices his trade in the drafting room of the post engineer at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana. Of approximately 359,000 prisoners held in the United States, 306,000 were Germans, 51,000 Italians, and 2,400 Japanese.

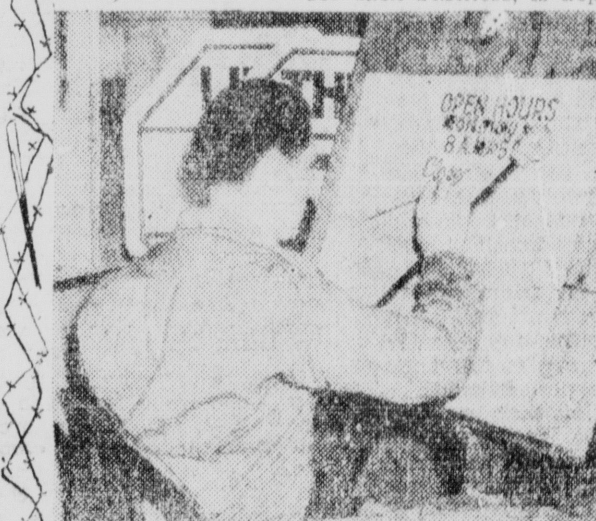

WELFARE OFFICER—Protected personnel such as medical corpsmen and chaplains, who are not combat troops, are employed in looking after welfare of fellow-prisoners. German Army doctor at Glenn General Hospital, Okmulgee, Okla., collects blood from a war prisoner, to be used in giving transfusions to other German prisoners.

DOWN IN DIXIE, war prisoners help in harvesting cotton. More than half of the 45,000,000 man-days of work contributed in the United States alone, have been devoted to relief of agricultural manpower shortage. Prisoners also harvest peanuts, rice, citrus fruits, vegetables, sugar cane, and potatoes. Prisoner of war labor is divided into two classes: Work done on contract for private employers and work not directly related to the war effort, done for the Army on Army posts and camps. Men employed by private industry receive 80 cents a day in commissary and canteen script, plus food and lodging. Balance of pay, at going rates for each business, is deposited in U. S. Treasury.

BEAUTIFY ARMY POST—Skilled carpenters, representing one of 160 special skills of war prisoners, build a window frame for an Army camp. Army places no monetary value on services of war prisoners.

enough for good stage productions and really worthwhile concerts . . . The war has been an effectual quietus on the VFW park and swimming pool in Pleasant township, and what a swell thing that would be for the community . . .

Over in Coudersport the men of the town all pitched in and built one. Just an idea.

Some time ago we remarked that about the first automobile to cavort on the streets of Warren was a tiny runabout that was brought here with Hi Henry's Minstrel Show. It was a feature of the parade and while the band played in front of the Savings Bank some fellow drove the automobile about in the snow there. It was a wonderful thing and few folks heard the band as they were so busy watching the auto. And now in the Jamestown Post-Journal comes the following relative to Hi Henry, who annually plays Warren, Sheffield and other towns in this section:

"Hiram M. Henry, widely known as 'Hi' Henry, was a native of Gowanda who played a cornet in one of the Union Army bands during the Civil War, and later for many years was a well-known figure in the minstrel world with his own company, including a famous band. He was a natural musician and was recognized when in his prime as one of the foremost cornet soloists in the country. Every summer he would assemble his company at Gowanda, taking the road with his troupe as soon as the fall theatrical season began. His minstrels filled an annual engagement here for a long period of years and, no doubt, many hundreds of our readers will recall him in resplendent uniform leading the street parade on a silver-plated bicycle and later in an elaborate automobile made especially for show purposes. Then, at the evening show he would blossom out in full dress, with a large diamond in his shirtfront and another in a ring. He died in 1920."

Up in the public library is a collection of programs of theatrical attractions that showed at Library Theatre from the time it was opened until a few years ago. The collection was made by the late W. A. Alexander. From the programs one can gather that the shows presented Warren with the best actors and actresses that were on the road . . . The other night we sat beside Otto Peterson, of the Forge, at a dinner and he enjoyed his eats. Now comes word that his son, Cpl. Fred Peterson, is in Belgium and enjoys the new "C" rations, which contain meat, noodles, etc. From the accent on the eats, we take it Fred is just a chip off the old block . . . Sara McCormick, of Youngsville, is "fixin'" to celebrate her 105th birthday on February 14. "Aunt Sara" is undoubtedly the oldest woman in the county.

There are a lot of folks working for the Bell Telephone Company here and it's one of the things in Warren that goes ahead every day and few give it much attention. Among promotions made here recently by the company is that of Esther E. Snyder to senior operator . . . And in a current issue of the Bell Telephone News is a picture of Sergeant Carl L. Matson, of the Warren plant, taken in New Foundland with a boy friend. He has been located two years in New Foundland . . . School boys and girls are doing some excellent war work in the Victory shift at the Sylvania, where the hours are so arranged as not to interfere with school schedules. 'One day recently eight girls of a group of this shift turned out more production in a shorter space of time than has been done by any shift at the plant. Tried to get the names of the girls, but was told their picture was going to be seen, soon in The Beam, the Sylvania publication.

Gavin Assails Rubber Stamp Legislature

Washington, Feb. 9.—(P)—A despairing Republican member put the "rubber stamp" tag on the new congress.

"It looks to me," Rep. Gavin, (R-Pa) told the house, "as though the executive branch of the government is about to swallow the legislative and the old term 'rubber stamp' is to be with us for the next few years."

Reviewing recent legislative actions, he said:

"Last week in the work or jail legislation we heard about the scarcity of manpower.

"This week we had the farm census legislation to put some 28,000 to 30,000 men and women—now in productive enterprise—into non-productive enterprise to gather and compile farm statistics at a cost of some $14,000,000. x x x

"Won't the boys over there doing the fighting be pleased about that?"

Gavin asserted that house Democrats put over the farm census, determined that "bureaucracy must be maintained regardless of the cost and regardless of how much manpower and money it takes from the war effort.

"And I thought the new congress would have the courage of its convictions."

WORLD BANK S ENDORSED N MESSAGE

President Calls on Congress
To Carry Out Bretton
Woods Agreement For Economic Cooperation

URGES PROMPT ACTION

Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—Warning that the future "is full of promise and danger," President Roosevelt today called on congress to carry out the Bretton Woods agreements for world economic cooperation.

In his first major public statement since leaving for the Big Three meeting, Mr. Roosevelt asked specifically for "prompt action" authorizing American participation in a proposed international bank and international monetary fund.

"It is time," he said in a message to congress released at the White House, "for the United States to take the lead in establishing the principle of economic cooperation as a foundation for expanded world trade."

The world bank to provide guaranteed loans for reconstruction and development—would be capitalized at $9,100,000,000, with an aggregate United States participation of $3,640,000,000.

Tanks Retire Slightly On Italian Front

Rome, Feb. 12.—(P)—American Fifth Army troops who drove to within two and one half miles of the Italian west coast sea have withdrawn slightly in the face of repeated enemy counterattacks and heavy German artillery and mortar fire, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Americans consolidated their positions about a half-mile south of Stretton, which is three miles southeast of Massa, headquarters said.

Due south of Massa negro troops of the 92nd Division repelled several counterattacks about a mile north of the little stream, Fiume Foce, and then withdrew to its south banks under heavy enemy fire.

Further inland the Germans are reported making a determined effort to regain control of the Ma Di Scotti ridge on the east side of the Serchio valley.

Accord To Bring Peace In Greece

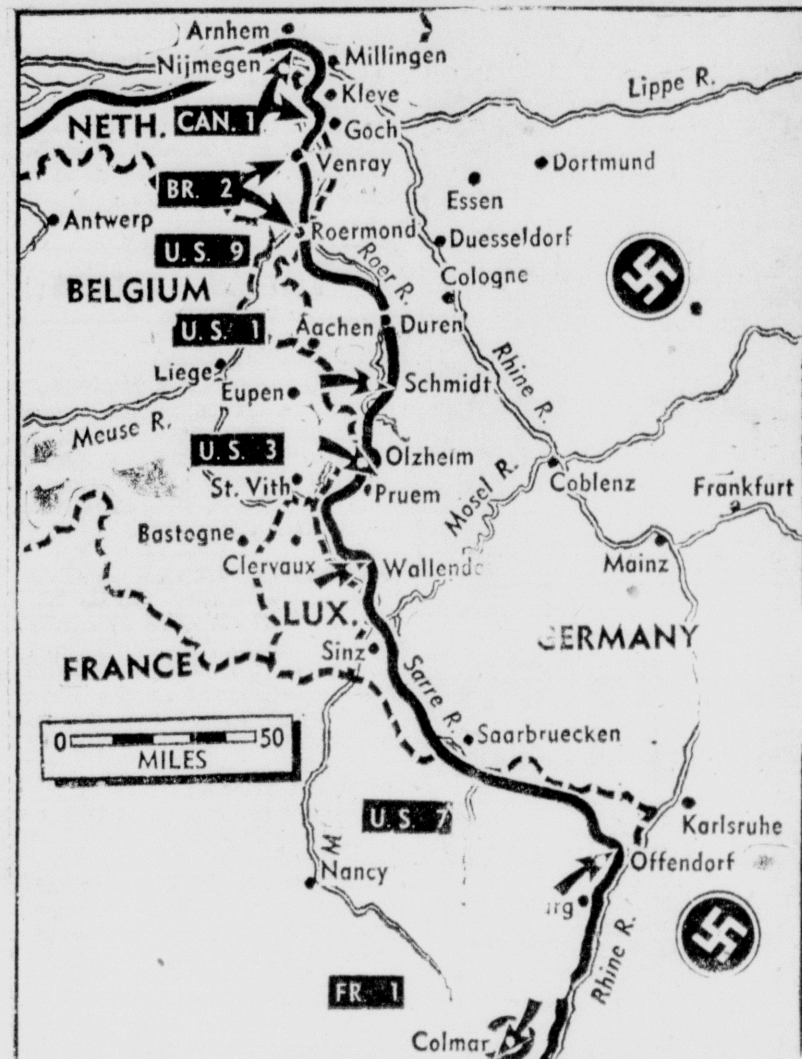

Athens, Feb. 12.—(P)—Negotiations between Leftwing EAM (National Liberation Front) leaders and the government of Premier Gen. Nikolaos Plastiras were successfully concluded today with a signing of an agreement expected to bring peace to this troubled land.

A brief announcement said that the conferees, who have been trying to reconcile their differences for several weeks, finally reached agreement "on all points under discussion" at 4:30 a. m.

The 10-hour session preceded the signing of the accord, which is limited to a brief protocol because of the hour, the announcement said.

It was presumed that a fuller announcement would be issued later concerning the terms of the agreement.

Soldier Vote Proposal Has Clear Track

Harrisburg, Feb. 12.—(P)—Bipartisan soldier vote legislation received a clear track in the assembly today as the Republican administration took steps to soften objections to other major GOP proposals.

Co-sponsored in the house by the majority and minority party leaders, measures to advance the municipal primary from Sept. 11 to June 19 and make it easier for GI's to vote in the November election this year were in position for final action in the lower branch tomorrow. Senate action may come next week.

Coal industry representatives, reportedly opposed to provisions of an administration bill to halt pollution of Pennsylvania streams, will meet tomorrow with members of Governor Martin's cabinet to discuss this and proposals to liberalize compensation laws and regulate strip or surfacing mining.

Returning lawmakers also will receive in bill form the recommendation of a committee of the Joint State Government Commission, legislative research agency, for sharing among municipalities a major part of the $22,500,000 revenues collected biennially from a one cent tax on gasoline.

A measure to re-enact the one cent tax permanently and turn the receipts into the motor fund was shunted back to a house committee last week when some GOP members objected in caucus to its passage without designation of the share local government would get for highway purposes.

The governor recommended Jan. 2 such grants from the tax to relieve local real estate tax burdens.

Meatless Summer For Many People

Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—It may be a meatless summer for a lot of people.

New government food estimates are that this year's consumption of meat per civilian will be between 120 and 132 pounds. This would be the smallest since 1935 when per capita consumption was 116 pounds. It compares with a figure of 147 last year.

There are two principal factors: Much smaller total meat production than had been expected and the usual sharp drop in livestock marketing that comes with the spring and summer months.

The combination of these two factors means that the government will have to take a lot of meats, which have gone to civilians and use it instead for the armed forces and for lend-lease.

COMPOSER DIES
New York, Feb. 12.—(P)—Al Dubin, 54, who wrote the words to 2,000 popular songs, including "Dancing with Tears in My Eyes," "Among My Souvenirs" and "Tip-Toe Through the Tulips," died here yesterday after a brief illness.

Quaker City Honors Great Emancipator

Philadelphia, Feb. 12.—(P)—Celebration of the 136th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln began at noon here today with the placing of a wreath in front of the main entrance to Independence Hall.

Alfred W. Gabrio of Hazleton, 99-year-old commander of the Pennsylvania Department of the Grand Army of the Republic, is in Philadelphia to participate in the observance.

"A great man—our greatest president," Gabrio, a veteran of the battle of Vicksburg, said of Lincoln.

No Signs Of Flood Third Day of Thaw

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12.—(P)—Western Pennsylvania like the rest of the state, moved into the third day of its "February thaw" today—with no sign of a flood.

Much of the snow had disappeared from highways and hillsides but it resulted in a rise of only a few tenths of an inch in the Allegheny river. Most of the water sank into the soft ground, the weather bureau said.

Warmest weather locally was experienced Saturday when the temperature climbed to 52. Highest yesterday was 33 with 35 predicted for today.

The thaw brought relief to seven families on the east side of Big Sewickley creek in Economy township, near Ambridge. They had been snowed in since the blizzard hit Dec. 11 and now, for the first time, were able to get out to buy supplies.

Plan To Strip More Powers From Wallace

Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—Henry Wallace's house opponents appeared assured today of a chance to restrict further the money powers he would wield if he becomes secretary of commerce.

The anti-Wallace forces apparently were given private assurance they'll have an opportunity to vote on taking the commerce secretary off the board of directors of the Export-Import Bank. This would be in addition to divesting him from control of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The house rules committee—despite earlier opposition—is expected Wednesday to send to the house floor for general debate the senate-passed George Bill taking RFC out of the commerce department.

SWEEP VITAL AIRSTRIP

BULLETIN

Manila, Feb. 12.—(P)—The bitter, cunning and bloody fight for Manila, against the backdrop of a blackened and still burning city, ploughed slowly ahead today, house by house and street by street. The queen city of the Philippines burned for the eighth consecutive night last night. Downtown Manila, south of the Pasig river, is a scene of desolation. Hundreds of Japanese dead have been counted in the streets. Many more hundreds probably are buried beneath the debris which they have pulled down and are continuing to pull down with them.

Manila, Feb. 12.—(P)—Manila's bitterly-resisting Japanese defenders were trapped in a narrowing triangle between Manila Bay and the winding Pasig river today as increasing numbers of American troops and armor poured in for the kill, aided by artillery and marine divebombers.

Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge's First Cavalry Division columns thrust deep into south Manila from the east yesterday after fording the Pasig again, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported.

They swept over the Neilson airstrip and through the Santa Ana district southeast of the flame-blackened business district, fashioning a firm vise on the entrenched enemy defense garrison in the ninth day of the bloody battle for the capital.

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th Infantry Division, meanwhile, fought through the residential Ermita district, along the south Manila Bay shore, in the face of withering artillery fire from Japanese heavy guns and mortars mounted on or behind 10-foot-thick walls of the old Intramuros (walled city) immediately north.

Airborne 11th Division Yanks under Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Swing were battling around Nichols Field, at the southern outskirts, and sent units northward to within half a mile of the American Polo Club.

Seventy-five Marine divebombers added their weight to the artillery pounding the desperate enemy. They tore devastatingly into a stubborn Japanese position near Fort William McKinley, at the southern edge of the capital.

Sheet of flame spread over Corregidor, historic fortress at the entrance to Manila Bay.

TRAFFIC DEATHS IN PITTSBURGH LOWERED

Pittsburgh, Feb. 12.—(P)—Pittsburgh had fewer traffic deaths in 1944 than in any other 12 months in the past 22 years.

Fifty-three persons died in motor mishaps last year, 39.9 per cent less than the 88 of 1943 and 73.2 per cent under the all-time high year, 1930, when 198 met "sudden death."

The average since the city started keeping such records in 1923 is 107 deaths per year.

Of those killed in 1944, 36 were pedestrians, the others were riders or drivers.

CRESSON DOCTOR KILLED

Cresson, Feb. 12.—(P)—Dr. James A. Lynch, 74, veteran of the first World War and a practicing physician 49 years in this Cambria county community, was killed yesterday in an accidental fall from a second-story window at his home.

Harrisburg, Feb. 12.—(P)—St. Valentine's day gifts "straight from the heart" were urged today by Governor Martin who endorsed a plan for Pennsylvania women to donate blood at the Red Cross Blood Bank on Feb. 14.

Breaks Leg Getting Into Cigaret Line

St. Joseph, Mich., Feb. 12.—(P)—Glenn Luglum, purchasing agent for a firm here, broke his leg in a rush for a pack of cigarettes.

Rounding an intersection at full gallop when he saw a cigarette line forming in front of a drug store, Luglum slipped on the ice and fell, breaking his left leg in two places.

OWM Renews Appeal For Labor Draft

By FRANCIS J. KELLY

Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—The Office of War Mobilization renewed its appeal today for national service legislation as a compromise manpower control plan was reported under preparation in the senate.

An OWM statement released by Johnathan Daniels, an administrative assistant to President Roosevelt, said:

"The Office of War Mobilization and Reconstruction has advised me that an article in the New York Herald Tribune today indicating that the Voorhis bill is acceptable to it as a substitute for the May bill is without foundation in fact."

"The director holds firmly to the belief that manpower legislation should recognize that there is an obligation for men eligible for the draft who are not called into the armed service to render their war service wherever it is most needed."

"The views of this office have been expressed in its report on the May bill to Senator Thomas, chairman of the senate military affairs committee."

The Voorhis bill would give statutory standing to manpower ceiling directives of the War Manpower Commission. Defeated in the house before passage of the May bill, its objectives are similar to those of the senate compromise plan.

Advocates of the senate plan aren't talking for publication until they get the details worked out.

Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today that women will be included in any national service legislation only after they are willing to be.

"I'm not kidding myself," she said in reply to a question at her news conference. "The women in this country don't want a national service act for themselves."

Army Supply Bill Is Given Approval

Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—A $99,165,940 war department civil functions supply bill was approved today by the house appropriations committee.

All but about $11,000,000 of the total was allocated to the army engineers corps for maintenance and improvement of the war-curtailed rivers and harbors and flood control program.

The bill's total was $3,309,900 below appropriations for the same purposes this year and $97,300 under budget estimates.

Only $3,970,000 was allocated for new river and harbor work, the committee asserting such projects must be held to a minimum because of manpower and material shortages.

Slightly more than $7,000,000 was set aside for new flood control construction, in addition to $30,000,000 for flood control operations on the Mississippi river and its tributaries.

FARM HAND FOUND DEAD OF EXHAUSTION

Washington, Pa., Feb. 12.—(P)—The coroner's office reported today Stanley Lucas, 55, a farm hand who has been missing two weeks, was found frozen to death in a field near Canonsburg.

Lucas was last seen January 31 when he left his employer's home "to take a walk" to Bridgeville, several miles distant.

The coroner's office said he apparently suffered a heart attack and died of exposure

BULLETIN

Paris, Feb. 12.—(P)—Kleve, northern anchor of the Siegfried Line, was captured today by the Canadian First Army. The city of 29,000 lies 12 miles west of Nijmegen, starting point of the Canadian and British offensive. Reduced to smoke junk by Allied aerial and artillery poundings, it was the largest place yet captured in the five-day-old drive. Since 115 miles south, the U. S. Third Army won half of the major traffic center of Puen, which the Germans apparently were abandoning.

Paris, Feb. 12.—(P)—Canadian First Army troops pushed beyond the devastated Siegfried Line anchor city of Kleve today, leaving groups behind to mop up the last nests of snipers in basements and garrets of the ruins.

In the center of the front, the U. S. Fourth Division cleared half of the major road junction of Puen behind the widely-breached Siegfried Line. This fortified traffic center is eight miles inside Germany and 45 from the Rhine city of Koblenz, American occupation headquarters after the last war.

Between the focal points of battle, the floods loosed by the German breaching of the Schwammennel dam flood gates immobilized the U. S. Ninth and British Second army lined up along the Roer, which was a ranging river two miles wide at one point. Water sunk 46 feet from the top of the dam and deflated the five-mile-long reservoir, flooding the Roer valley.

The British and Canadian troops of Gen. Henry Crerar's command won control of three-fourths of the Reichswald thickets of fir trees and crossed in force the Spoy canal linking Kleve (Pop.: 20,000) to the Rhine, four miles north.

The Dutch border town of Genep (Pop.: 3272) was captured and the Niers river to the east was crossed. Vanguard passed a road through the shell-splintered Reichswald a mile north of Kessel, which lies four miles northwest of the west wall road center of Goch. The prisoner bag rose to 4,000, most of them teenage youth or infirm men.

Fighting in the Rhine elbow between the medieval fortress ruins of Kleve and the river was described as almost an amphibious operation because of the extensive thaw and flooding of the easily-drowned German and Dutch flatlands.

Supreme headquarters said the flood peak on the Roer apparently (Turn to Page Seven)

Farm Census Is Scored In House

Washington, Feb. 12.—(P)—A former farm census enumerator himself, Rep. Gross (R-Pa.) said the census now under way is "a waste of time" and even "interferes with the successful winning of the war."

Gross gave his views in a house speech against providing an additional $6,750,000 for the census, a proposal later adopted, with Republicans almost solidly opposing the move.

Another Pennsylvania house member, Rep. Murphy (D-Pa.), presided during the debate on the census fund proposal.

Gross said he thought the government already was getting all the farm information it needed through the innumerable questionnaires.

"They tell me this is going to take around 30,000 enumerators," he said. "This means 30,000 automobiles with a driver burning gas and using tires."

"I took the census, myself, back in the '20s. x x x I don't know what the reaction of the farmer will be now when the census enumerators take up his time."

The daylight raid today on Iwo Jima, carried out by the Twenty-first Bomber Command, Saipan, struck military installations which B-29s have been hitting regularly.

Details of this attack were not immediately determined and will be announced when operational reports are received.

The Twenty-first Bomber Command at Guam announced the raid on Ota (Saturday), where one of Japan's most important aircraft factories was struck with "good" results.

Article In College Paper By Girl Editor Raises Row

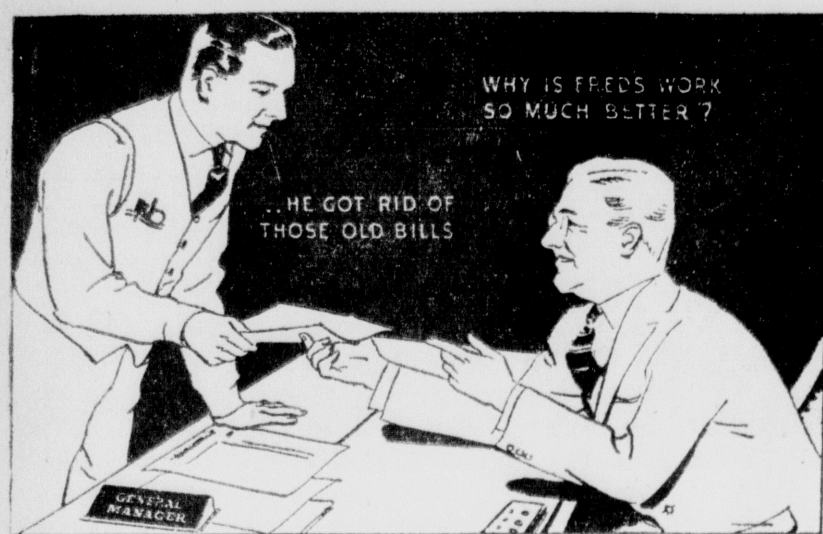

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 12.—Students of the college of William and Mary today protested censorship of college publications which they said was offered as an alternative to suspension of publication as a result of an editorial in The Flat Hat, college weekly, suggesting the time would come when Negroes should attend the school, fraternize and "marry among us."

Again and again it was stated from the floor at a student meeting that the question was not one of approval of the editorial, which many students have stated did not express their views, but a question of whether students wanted a censored publication.

Miss Marilyn Kaemerle, 22-year-old student editor who wrote the editorial in The Flat Hat, did not attend the meeting. She said in an interview today that she would "rather forget" about it but that she is sticking by the views she expressed.

The college board of trustees meeting Saturday in Richmond, expressed "thorough disapproval and condemnation" and directed the college administration and faculty to take corrective and disciplinary action.

Miss Kaemerle, a senior, wrote that education was the only way (Turn to Page Seven)

Allegheny River Reservoir Will Be Expensive But Worthwhile

The booklet which is being circulated in the Allegheny valley relative to the flood control plans for the handling of flood water in the valley are of vast interest. The booklet gives some interesting data on the big project which will be built following the war. In part the booklet says relative to the project:

In too many instances the march of progress has meant disfigurement and destruction of nature's handiwork. In this case, however, the beauty of the upper Allegheny river will be increased by the provision of a flood control reservoir above Warren, near Kinzua. The completion of this project will give to northwestern Pennsylvania in general and Warren county, in particular an outstanding recreational center.

Towering 210 feet from sound rock, a great concrete and steel dam will impound a gross capacity of 1,125,000 acre-feet of water or 360,000,000,000 gallons draining a tributary area of 2,190 square miles and having a surface area, when full, of 21,000 acres or 33 square miles. Bountifully stocked with fish this reservoir is bound to become the haven of many fishermen and its extensive shore line will provide attractive sites for cottages. It is also sure to become the center for boating, swimming and other aquatic sports.

As a unit for the complete flood protection program the upper Allegheny river reservoir is sometimes erroneously referred to as "just another unit" of this expansive control system. This is not true as the storage capacity if this reservoir alone will be greater than all others in this project combined.

In addition to its function as a recreation center and flood control unit, the water thus reserved will also be used for volume control in periods of drought and low water. It will also serve to reduce acidity and hardness of the water and dilute pollution in the Allegheny and upper Ohio rivers. These in themselves will prove of immense value to the population of over a million and a half persons alone who reside in the Allegheny basin and in attracting new industries that depend upon good water. Warren some years ago lost the great Talm Plant to Meadville due to the water of the river.

Although the construction of this reservoir will probably be part of the post-war program it is not too soon to enlist the support of those who grasp the great advantages to be derived therefrom.

In this connection it should be borne in mind that an allotment of $35,700,000 of Federal funds will be necessary for this construction. The original estimate by the U. S. Army engineers was $31,700,000 to which $4,000,000 has been added for a ten foot raise in elevation. An initial allotment of $2,000,000 is needed for preliminary work with further allotments for construction.

Second year $7,000,000.
Third year $15,000,000.
Fourth year $11,700,000.

Annual cost for ordinary actual operation and maintenance is estimated at $85,000.
The spending of such sums will give this section a boost in business after the war that will cover a period of four years and undoubtedly lift this whole section out of any depression that may follow the war. The annual operation costs will also be largely expended in this section. Other projects of the dam will follow the building of the dam will give further thousands of dollars to labor and industry in this section.

Juliano Observes Anniversary As Salesman of Life Insurance

Completing his 15th year of service with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Pete G. Juliano was honored with a banquet at Ruby's Tea Room in Youngsville on Saturday evening.

Adding interest to the party, Gilbert McCullough, assistant manager of the Warren staff, had received a letter from Mr. Juliano's son, S/Sgt. Angelo Juliano, U. S. Marine Corps, somewhere in the Pacific, which was read by L. J. Stoddard. In it young Juliano congratulated his father on the fine way he has conducted his business during the 15 years he has been associated with the company. He recalled the date his father entered the insurance business, when he was only eight years old, and expressed the wish that he could be present to witness the presentation of the 15-year service medal sent by the Metropolitan Life Office and given by Julius Blaha, manager of the Jamestown District.

Mr. and Mrs. Juliano each received a beautiful gift from the personnel of the local staff and expressed their appreciation of the honors bestowed upon them during the evening. They particularly thanked those who had come from a distance for the ceremonies. After the presentations, the evening was devoted to cards and other games, concluding with expressions from the guests of good health and continued success for Mr. Juliano.

Warren Lays Plans To Give Aid Should a Flood Come

Plans were made Friday evening when a meeting was held at the control center of the various groups affiliated under the Co-ordinator of this county for disaster control. Known as the Disaster Panel the group is composed of the men who formerly handled emergency affairs here under the OCD set-up.

Discussion was held of the various features of a flood and the danger points in the county should there be a flood. Arrangements were made whereby points up and down the river could be aided. Chief of Police George Haehn who had a force of well drilled auxiliary police functioning during the danger of air raids has his group intact and he will have them for use in any emergency that may arise. He will be assisted by Elmer James and will list all boats and other paraphernalia that may be required.

Fire Chief Charles Alabaugh will stand by with the firemen and the ropes of the department and other equipment such as the emergency truck towing the fire department boat trailer, etc., will be available. Auxiliary firemen were trained in a number of the manufacturing plants in the city and county will also be available provided they are not required to stand by in their own place of employment.

The medical units which had been organized under the OCD will use its supplies, cots, medical supplies, etc., under the direction of Kermit Forsgren; Harry Christenson will have his air wardens again on the alert ready for response and he will check up immediately on them to learn how many are available as some have answered the call to arms and some have left the city. Calvin Barwis will be chief of transportation committee and will have cars ready for quick evacuation of persons caught by rising waters, station wagons to handle supplies of bedding, etc., and trucks for use.

Raymond Rapp will be in charge of communications over the county area both by telephone and short wave and will have short wave stations through the county ready for instant use.

C. C. Winans was present from the Red Cross which will also be ready to function with the disaster committee and all aid will be given the Red Cross in meeting any problems that may arise and the two groups will work closely aligned.

In addition the Civil Air Patrol will be available and Major Henry Walker will be in charge of this group.

Should a flood come the co-ordinator will be at the Control Center at all times to assist in any capacity. Constant touch will be kept with Col. Lynn Adams at Harrisburg and any available material needed can be promptly secured. Boats from the Coast Guard can be secured in three hours should their need arise. The plans are complete in every way and Warren Disaster Panel will undoubtedly win as high approval in its work as the Warren Control Center which was known as the "West Point" of Control Centers in Western Pennsylvania.

Wish to extend our thanks to friends for the many kind deeds and use of cars and floral offerings at the time of our bereavement.

Fire Marshall Investigates Local Tragedy

J. J. Henicheck, assistant state fire marshal, from the Pennsylvania State Police barracks at Butler, was in Warren Friday and Saturday assisting local officers in the investigation of the fatal blaze last Wednesday morning that took the lives of Mrs. Marie Clark Dillon, and her roomer and companion, Mrs. Edward Shanley, at 27 Walnut street.

Pvt. Henicheck, in company with Fire Chief Charles Alabaugh, Pvt. J. R. Krupey, Chief of Police George Haehn and Coroner Ed Lowrey, went into all the details regarding the tragedy, and visited the scene of the fire several times during the inquiry. He secured statements from all witnesses involved and other information involving the deaths.

Little that had not previously been reported was brought out during the joint inquiry. An inspection of the home left no doubt but that the fire started in the dining room near a door leading to the parlor, probably from an overturned stove. It is believed that the intense heat caused a "flash" which probably set fire to all portions of the two rooms.

THE TOMORROW—
 after the funeral

The degree of consolation remaining to a family is, to a great extent, determined by the thoughtful, personal attention of the Funeral Director.

In planning a funeral service we strive for a memorable tribute to the departed, but also we endeavor to serve the living by creating recollections they may cherish in the tomorrow—after the funeral.

Plans Shaping For Annual Red Cross Fund Campaign

Every individual in Warren county is going to have an opportunity to contribute to the American Red Cross War Fund of $200,000 when the campaign opens on March 9th. Warren county's quota will be $42,000. An intensive drive will be conducted throughout the county between the period of March 9th and 14th. Hon. Allison D. Wade, who led last year's successful campaign, will again be the general chairman of this year's War Fund.

Assisting him will be practically the same group of volunteer leaders who worked so hard to make last year's War Fund the success it was. Heading the Industrial and Special Gifts Committee will be C. T. Conarro and Chester S. Allen. E. H. Ley and B. V. Lesser will again lead the Commercial Division teams. Mrs. E. G. Hamilton has again consented to take charge of the Women's Division which will comb the residential sections of the borough. She will be able to announce her list of workers sometime this week. This group has always been one of the most efficient to function and it's importance this year will be greater than ever.

Division "D", Chain Stores and National Firms, will be led by L. F. Morlock; while Division "E", Government and School Employees, will get its impetus from the hands of J. G. Rossman who has been an untiring worker in many of the Red Cross War Funds. The large group of county workers, comprising Division "G", will be under the direction of Mr. Ray S. Thompson whose contact with all sections of Warren county have proved of inestimable value to Red Cross officials in years past. Mr. Thompson is already at work laying plans for a streamlined committee which will reach into every nook and corner of the county. He has already gathered together a number of influential and loyal workers with more still to be found.

Due to the stress of war, the "pinch" of rationing and the element of time it is planned to make this year's War Fund Campaign as simple and effective as possible. There will be no dinners or elaborate social functions in connection with any of the meetings. Every effort that can be made will be made to save the time of each worker and the distance he or she must travel.

At present, subject perhaps to some slight changes here and there, it is planned to open the Warren County Red Cross War Fund with a meeting at the Y. W. C. A. (where all meetings will be held) on the night of Friday, March 9th. The first report meeting will be called for Monday, March 12th and the second, and final, meeting for Wednesday the 14th. Headquarters for the campaign have been established in the Warren Bank and Trust Building, Room 503. Responsible persons are in charge there laying the groundwork for this year's War Fund.

The coming campaign will be the 4th War Fund Drive since this country has been at war. It will find over 4,000 Warren county men and women in service throughout the world and hardly a family in Warren county but who has some direct interest in some service man. The work that the Red Cross has done, is doing and still plans to do for these men is a matter of common knowledge and interest to thousands of Warren county homes. Letters, by the hundreds, reaching Warren tell of what the Red Cross has done throughout its far-flung lines of activity. The local Chapter of the American Red Cross feels that the goal of $42,000, slightly under that of last year, will be met promptly and cheerfully and that everyone will be glad to make his or her contribution when the War Fund drive officially gets under way. Remember the dates—March 9-14.

Stray Leaves From Notebook Of Reporter About Town

It will be two months Sunday since the big show began. Boy doesn't it seem longer... Up back of the school house at Lander the snow is stacked up 18 feet in height and on the road to Lander there is a nicely tunnelled bit of roadway... Snow on each side higher than an auto and only one way traffic... Sidewalks began to appear through the snow yesterday... And they do say some of the boys in the town surrounding Warren are standing for a gyp of $3.50 for a carton of their favorite cigarettes... That price has passed Warren by but $3 tops is levied here by the gougers... St. Patrick's Day always a lull in the Lenten observation falls on Saturday this year... George Erskine son of Benj. Erskine, former Warren man now head of the vast Sylvania Empire is a Republican of some note in this end of the state. He is a leader in Cameron county politics and was a delegate to Republican conventions... Up at Ray Bibbers somebody has an ancient gun for sale. It is a double barreled muzzle loader and was fired with a percussion cap... Inspection of the piece led Cully Hultberg to recall he had seen one with two barrels but only one hammer. You revolved the barrels to fire the gun... Bet the kids are tickled at the threatened shortage of soap. All kinds of toilet, laundry and soap powders... Clare Booth Luce will not be a radio commentator after all she thinks it would interfere with her legislative duties... State Senator Chapman receiving hundreds of letters from all over the state commending him for his efforts in endeavoring to secure a cancer research laboratory and clinics in this state. In a recent edition of the P. H. C. publication he was cited for his efforts... Only six new passenger automobiles have been assigned to the seven counties in the Erie OPA district.

This deep snow has some recompense. Dave Levine tells us that, due to the snow, he has walked to work ever since Christmas and in addition to saving coddles of gasoline he has shed 24 pounds. Says he never felt better and thinks he will continue to ride Shank's mare... Bob Wilson, quality engineer at the Sylvania, is grinning broadly and receiving congratulations on engineering, not only quality, but also quantity, as he is papa of a pair of fine twins... Jack Goldman, up at Harvey & Carey's, is one of the fastest moving fellows to be found in a Warren store. If he wore a pedometer, but it would register plenty of miles daily... One of the Cozy Corner's best coffee samplers is A. C. Wacs In Medical Unit Train In Outstandings Hospital Unit

Women of this area who join the Women's Army Corps medical units in the general hospitals, will have the opportunity to select Ashford General Hospital, White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, for their station of initial assignment, it was announced by 1st Lt. Mary A. O'Connor, Commanding Officer of the Erie WAC Recruiting Office. Under the new station and job assignment policy initiated by the WAC, this hospital may be chosen by women enlisting from Erie, Warren, Venango, Crawford, Forrest or Mercer counties. If new WAC enlistees do not desire to serve at Ashford General Hospital, they will be assigned by the War Department to one of the sixty general hospitals established in this country for the care of our wounded soldiers.

White Sulphur Springs is nestled in the Alleghany Mountains about 110 miles southeast of Charleston, and within a stone's throw of the Virginia state line. It lies west of the Jefferson National Forest, and within a few miles of the Greenbrier State Forest of West Virginia. Assignment to Ashford General Hospital will be made following a six weeks' basic training course and six weeks of study at an Army Medical Department enlisted technician school. Women who enlist in the WAC from one locality may join as a platoon of 15 members, to be assigned as a group to the hospital after completion of training. Thus they will serve side by side with their friends.

Work at the hospital will complete the training program. The WACS will receive one month of applicatory training, consisting of classroom work in the mornings, and application of their learning in the afternoons. Upon satisfactory completion of the training courses, WACS will receive technician ratings of Technician Fifth Grade.

The pay as Technician Fifth Grade is the same as that of a Corporal, $66 per month. There is an advance in pay for each advance in grade, the highest grade receiving $138 a month. In addition, each WAC is provided with food, clothing, quarters, medical and dental care, and she is entitled, as any other soldier, to the benefits of the "G. I. Bill of Rights". Some WACS will be used in a clerical or administrative capacity, but the ratings will be the same. It is an intricate, however, that at least 85 per cent of the women will be trained and used as technicians, either medical or surgical.

The need for medical technicians in the WAC is most urgent. The professional men and women in the Army Medical and Nurses Corps are working tirelessly with the greatest casualty load in the Army's history. Every moment, and every ounce of energy are valuable in their work. The trained WAC—trained by the Army, or trained before her enlistment—takes a burden from the shoulders of an Army doctor or nurse.

On Tuesday, from 2 until 7 p. m., Lt. O'Connor and S/Sgt. Mary L. Gravel, Chief Clerk, of the WAC Recruiting Office in Erie, will maintain offices in the YWCA in Warren. They will be here to help you and to help our wounded men from overseas. We urge all women of this area to call or visit them about the WAC.

THE FIGHT FOR LINCOLN'S IDEAL

One hundred and thirty-six years ago today Abraham Lincoln was born in the wilderness of a new nation "conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

It was his mission to guide that nation through the first great test of the truth of its conception, and to correct a great inequity which mocked the nobility of its dedication. In fulfilling that mission he made articulate the highest aspirations of his country, and bequeathed to it an example of charity and rectitude that has since served as an unending source of inspiration and strength.

Today his country is fighting, with the civilized world, for the same cause for which Lincoln struggled and died. It is at war with two nations conceived in bigotry and dedicated to the proposition that two peoples were created superior to other men, and thus are free to enslave and rule their fellows.

It has been a war to test whether these nations or any nations, so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. And though battles remain to be fought, the answer is already settled and the ideal of Lincoln is ascendant.

How different this world might have been if Lincoln had not lived we cannot know. But we do know that the influence of his life has permeated the life of America and, through America, has shaped the thinking of men to whom Lincoln is no more than a name.

Lincoln led his country to the threshold of freedom, equality and union. Neither this country nor the world has yet crossed that threshold into a life that embodies those qualities in perfection. But they remain as goals of world endeavor. And though much painful struggle lies ahead, we at least can see that the new order will be constructed more on the lines of the Gettysburg Address than of Mein Kampf.

SYLVANIA BASIC ELEMENTS OF PRODUCTION

Eleven basic factors necessary for successful production both in war and in peace are stressed in the current issue of The Beam, employees' magazine of Sylvania Electric Products Inc.

The factors stressed are: People, Good Management, Plants, Equipment, High Quality, Competitive Cost, Good Use of Time and Materials, Methods, Safety and Intelligent Cooperation. Pictographs illustrating the article emphasize that orders can be lost because of price margins as small as 50 cents a thousand and that lower selling prices greatly increase the number of potential customers. The value of high quality in obtaining civilian as well as military orders and for obtaining repeat orders is also emphasized in the article which states:

"In war: The generals do the planning; the soldiers do the fighting.

"In business: The Management does the planning, the foreman who is 'top sergeant in the Battle of Production' gives the instructions and the Employees do the producing.

"It's the soldier in the ranks who wins the battles, and the employee in the plant and office who puts out the product.

"The individual employee builds the quality, contributes by efficient work, elimination of waste of materials or time and by constructive suggestions to Competitive Cost.

"Every employee helps contribute to the success or failure of the Company and to the permanency and opportunity in his or her job."

HARD-FOUGHT WEEK-END

The battle of Germany—last act of the European war—has on the whole gone well for the United Nations over a hard fought week-end.

The western Allies, in intensive preparation for their projected all-out offensive, fought their way into two strategic communications centers—Kleve, in the north, and Pruem, a hundred miles to the south. So great was the threat produced by these two attacks that the Germans were reported rushing reinforcements from the eastern theatre.

On the other side of the Reich the Red armies continue to batter into the country over a wide front, especially on their northern and southern flanks. The Moscow radio views the situation so optimistically today that it says the Nazi fighting machine has been smashed and can't stand up to the Soviet pressure.

All this is of course vastly encouraging, but in the opinion of war analysts, it is important that despite this gigantic military squeeze the Hitlerites are continuing to display determination to fight to a finish. Knowledge that defeat is inevitable hasn't yet broken that determination, even though the very foundations of Berlin are shaking.

Scare buying is likely to bring coffee rationing back, says a government official. That is, if too many little pigs go to market!

Many Out to Hear Address By Rossman

Probably the largest number of men at a St. Paul Brotherhood meeting in a year was present Thursday evening to hear a thought-provoking presentation of one of our nation's most vital problems by John G. Rossman, superintendent of schools.

If, as is claimed, this is the best managed war in our country's history, so also is constructive interest shown by our government in the future welfare of our service personnel as it affects his or her mental, physical and material well-being for years to come, the most far-reaching ever attempted by any nation.

Mr. Rossman has given and is giving this subject such intelligent and thorough investigation that every phase is presented in an authoritative manner, helpful to every individual American.

This problem deserves serious consideration of church, school and state and Mr. Rossman, as school superintendent, teacher of one of the church's larger men's Bible classes and in part responsible for the cost of education to our state, feels intensely his responsibility and deserves the community's commendation for his constructive efforts.

Robert Swanson was in charge of the business meeting and Roger Johnson conducted devotions. Hosts were J. A. Johnson, C. J. Johnson, J. W. Johnson and Roger Johnson.

PENNSYLVANIA GAS COMPANY

BY TOM WEST

YESTERDAY: Mike O'Shane's impersonation of the dead Tom Curran is brought out into the open by St. Wacker, proprietor of the local dance hall. He makes good his threat to have a warrant sworn out against the redhead for the murder of Curran. Giving the posse sent after him the slip, Mike comes upon Viola Thornton on foot and about to be trampled to death in the middle of a milling herd of cattle. He rescues her for the second time. Hoping to enlist her father's aid against Wacker, the redhead asks her to take him to her spread.

"You've been around some!" commented O'Shane.

"Not so much," she replied regretfully. "I've spent most of my time in a Boston boarding school—a horrible fate!"

Riding up to the gallery that breasted the front of the house, they dismounted. Viola hurried indoors, while O'Shane rolled a smoke and debated his approach.

Viola reappeared, followed by a straight-backed, soldierly looking man, with close-cropped, graying hair. He was taller than O'Shane and clean-shaven, except for a precisely clipped military mustache. His plaid shirt, open at the neck, revealed a bronzed, sinewy torso. He advanced with hand outstretched.

"I understand you saved my daughter from injury, perhaps death, twice today, Mr. Curran. I am grateful, deeply grateful."

"Oh, Dad!" remonstrated Viola. "Guess she didn't know it's dangerous to be caught alone in cattle country," smiled O'Shane.

His voice changed, deepened with urgency. "Say, Colonel, I want to talk with you—pronto!"

"Step inside!" invited Thornton courteously.

O'SHANE found himself in a small room, evidently the Colonel's den. Against one wall three straight back chairs were lined up with military preciseness.

Viola rushed in after them, breathing rapidly.

The Colonel eyed his daughter questioningly. "I understand that Mr. Curran—" he began.

"Let her stay!" broke in O'Shane. "She'll get the story anyway, and it will be twisted plenty."

Thornton nodded briskly and seated himself in the swivel chair. Sliding open a drawer of the desk, he produced a box of cigars and tendered them to the red-head. "Sit down!" he invited.

"I talk better standing, and my name ain't Curran," returned O'Shane waving the cigars away. "Not Tom Curran!" squealed Viola, gazing at him with wide-open eyes.

Briefly, he told them of his imposture and his experiences with the Wacker gang.

Thornton listened in silence, thoughtfully chewing his cigar. Viola sat fascinated, literally devouring every word.

"Just like a novel!" she breathed, as the redhead ended his narration.

Her father said nothing, but sat, with straight back, pondering over his visitor's story.

"Well?" demanded O'Shane impatiently, as the seconds dragged. At any moment he expected to hear the shouts of a posse outside.

Thornton rose slowly to his feet. "I'm sorry, Mr.—Mr.—"

"Mike O'Shane's the name."

"Mr. O'Shane. Although I am in your debt for rescuing my daughter I have only your word for what transpired in the desert. You admit impersonating Curran, a criminal act. You imply that you had previously been a fugitive. You made serious accusations against men well known in this community."

"Oh, Dad!" remonstrated Viola. "I am afraid that I cannot see eye to eye with you," continued Thornton, ignoring his daughter's flashing eyes. "I must ask you to leave this ranch—right now."

O'SHANE shrugged his shoulders hopelessly. His gamble had failed.

In silence the three filed along the corridor and out upon the gallery.

"Where's my horse?" O'Shane glanced quickly around.

"I had one of the boys take him to be fed and watered, with Sugar," returned Viola. She tripped lightly down the gallery steps.

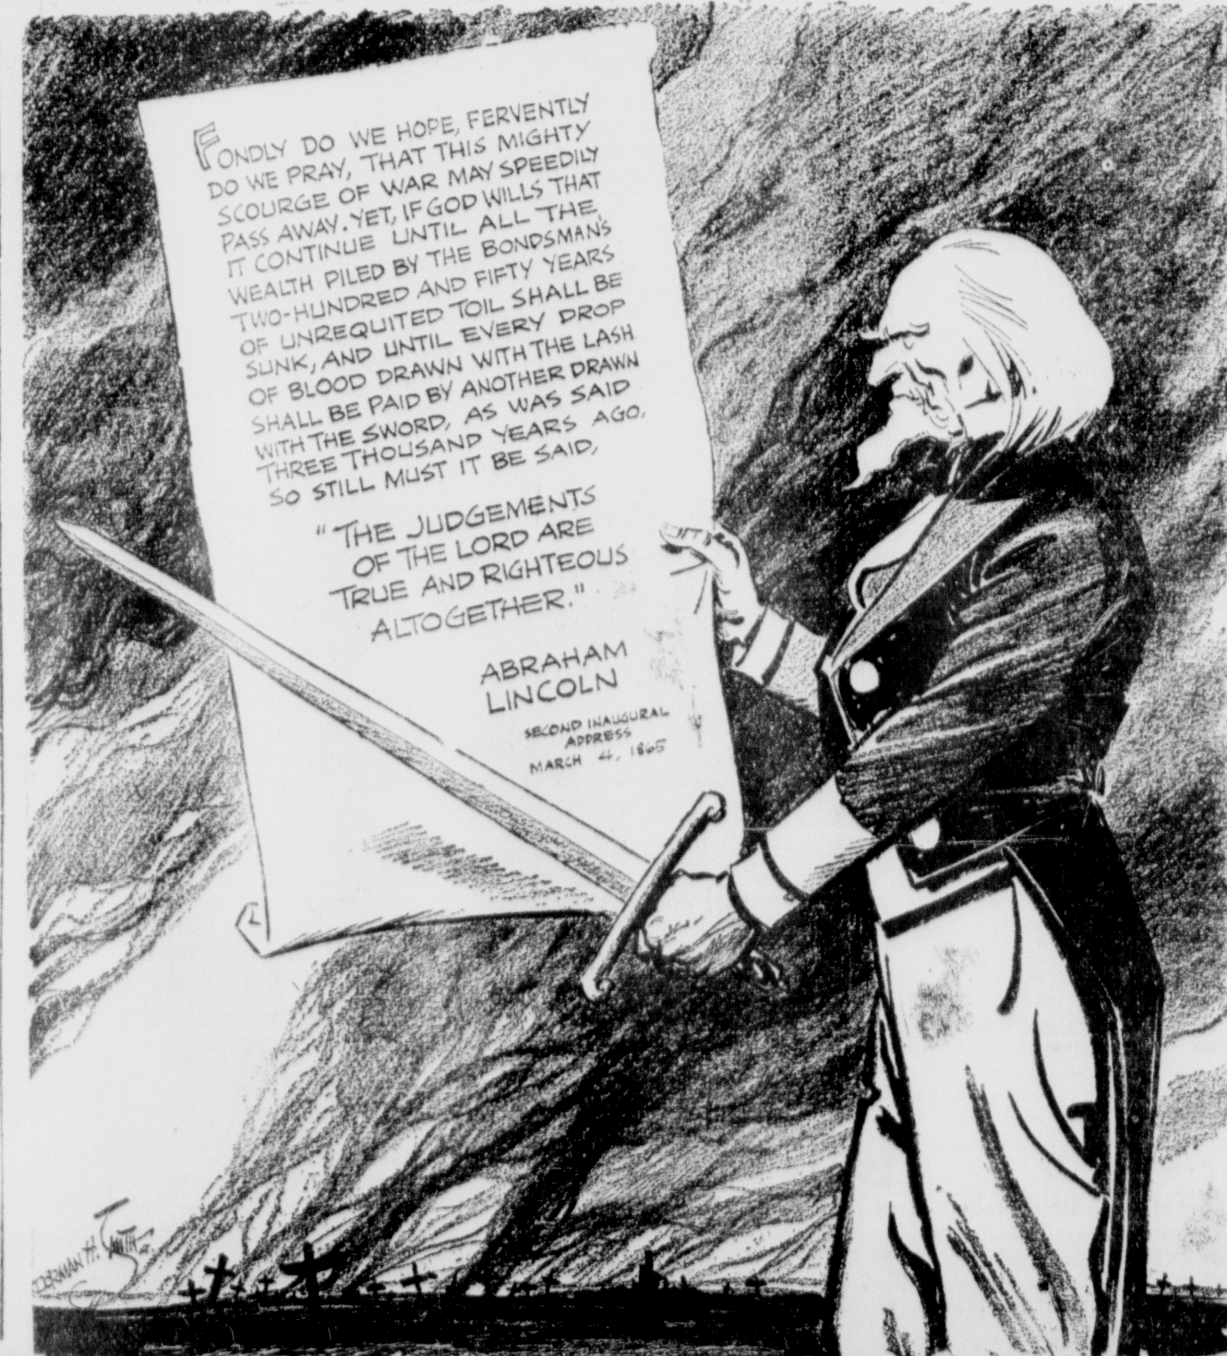

"Why," she cried stopping and pointing excitedly, "here are some more visitors!"

O'Shane swelled around. Not half a mile distant, a compact body of riders were loping towards the avenue of cottonwoods. He recognized Brazos' figure in the lead.

Like a hunted animal, his eyes darted around, seeking a means of escape. There was none. Before he could find and mount his missing pony the posse would be upon him. Retreat was cut off by the great mesa whose rocky walls towered high behind the ranch.

Hark, the Voice From Another Great War

ONLY DO WE HOPE, FERVENTLY DO WE PRAY, THAT THIS MIGHTY SCOURGE OF WAR MAY SPEEDILY PASS AWAY. YET, IF GOD WILLS THAT IT CONTINUE UNTIL ALL THE WEALTH PILED BY THE BONDSMAN'S TWO-HUNDRED AND FIFTY YEARS OF UNREQUITED TOIL SHALL BE SUNK, AND UNTIL EVERY DROP OF BLOOD DRAWN WITH THE LASH SHALL BE PAID BY ANOTHER DRAWN WITH THE SWORD, AS WAS SAID THREE THOUSAND YEARS AGO, SO STILL MUST IT BE SAID,

College Club Has Fine Address On Germany of Today

Following the routine business meeting of the College Club, held at the home of Mrs. William Glassman, Fourth avenue, Mrs. Arnold Popen introduced to the members Mrs. Hans Kronheim, of Jamestown, who spoke on the Germany of today.

She prefaced her address with a statement that she had spent most of her life in Germany, leaving there in 1939, and that the Germany of today and the Germany she knew as a child are so different worlds.

She stressed the fact that Nazism in its education has declared war on culture and, supported by big business and the militarists, is succeeding in becoming all-powerful because of the indifference or neutrality of the middle classes.

She stated that the Allies must provide for Germany a strong, under-effective education if they are to bring about a new order in Germany that will make possible a lasting peace.

Her own personal opinion is that it will prove very difficult because of the thoroughness with which the Nazi machine has carried out its "education for might" program, in which power has been instilled for all emotions that take for a peace-loving nation.

Concluding the evening's program the social committee served refreshments.

Record Number Turn Out For Floor Show Given By Jamestown Young Folks

There was a record attendance for the teen age community party at Bealy school Friday evening. Warren young people expressed their appreciation for the fine entertainment supplied by the Jamestown young people from "The Rec", the Jamestown High School recreation center.

Thirty-five young people came down on the bus from Jamestown. Miss Anderson and Miss Ottoson, their advisors, and two others came by car. The orchestra's instruments were transported by the Coca Cola Company of Jamestown, which supplied a truck and driver for the occasion.

Bud Ulf's Orchestra furnished the music for the dancing all evening. At ten o'clock the Jamestown group presented a floor show, which supplied excellent entertainment for about an hour. Jerry Lawson acted as master of ceremonies for the floor show entertainment, which had previously been presented in "The Rec at Jamestown. All of the specialties were enjoyed, particularly the amusing Blind Date act, conducted by Ginny Thomas. The soloists were Ingrid Persson and Julia Andrea. The Four Chords was another good act.

In addition to the dancing and floor and auditorium shows, there were the usual game room programs, ice skating and dance instruction.

Last evening the Committee on Community Recreation met to make plans for going to Jamestown on March 17th. Orchestra and floor show entertainment is being lined up to provide a return courtesy to the young people at The Rec.

Dragons Upset By Rockets, 33-25, At Titusville; Hold First Place In Section Race

Talk of a championship basketball club became a little less frequent following the Warren Dragons' stunning 33-25 defeat at Titusville Friday night. The loss, however, does not dump the local combination out of top place, but both the Rockets and the Oilers are right on the Blue and White quints' heels in case of another slip such as was noticed last Friday.

Scalise, the league high scorer, was held to a meager four points and Jack Eaton, 6' 4" giant center, twisted his ankle early in the second period and was forced out of the game. Eaton will be unable to return to the court for at least two weeks. These two incidents were just two of the worries which confronted Coach Joseph A. Massa at the Colestock Gymnasium Friday night last. The Dragon mentor was also minus the services of Al Babcock, who pulled several muscles in practice Thursday. After Eaton's injury, Babcock dressed and went into the battle which was a great aid to the Dragon machine.

The Blue and Whites romped off to an early 6-1 lead and it looked as though the boys were away on their sixth league victory jaunt. A forgotten man entered the picture which turned the tale. Skip Love, fast, tricky forward, who led the Titusville scoring column with 12 markers, dropped in two rapid-fire baskets which put the Rocket crew back into the thick of the battle. At the end of the first quarter, it was 8-3. The loss of big Eaton in the second period and the failure of Joe Scalise being able to connect, hindered the Dragon advance and they were on the short end of the 16-14 halftime count.

The locals entered the third stanza determined to break the Rocket lead with a series of fast breaks, but Mister Love and Company was "on" and they were determined to upset the "appreciated." When the third quarter ended, the Massas were still behind, 26-21. The Rockets continued their onslaught in the final stanza, outscoring Warren 7-4. When the final whistle sounded, the locals were on the losing end of a 33-25 margin.

The Warren aggregation outdid the Rockets from the field, but the locals lost the decision. The Blue and White sent 12 baskets flying through the hoop to Titusville's 11, but the official called a total of 27 fouls, of which 19 were on the Dragons. The Warren boys made good but one foul point to Titusville's 11.

(From Page One)
The fall of Deutsch Krone, 63 miles from the Baltic, virtually settled the fate of the encircled German garrison in the railroad town of Schneidmühl, 12 miles to the southeast.

The Germans said the Russians had broken into the center of Schneidmühl.

Below Breslau, the German communiques reported a strong new strike on the upper Oder between Bielsko in Polish Silesia and Ebnor in German Silesia toward the Moravian gateway to Vienna and Prague.

Above Breslau the Russians had captured Liegnitz, a transportation center 40 miles west and slightly north of Breslau.

BULLETIN

London, Feb. 12—(P)—Bielsko, a German bastion 27 miles east of Katowice in southwestern Poland, has been captured, Marshal Stalin announced tonight.

Almost within Russian grasp were the Silesian cities of Schweidnitz, Striegan, Pauer, Goldberg, among the last of the towns before Konev reaches Czechoslovakia in his southwestward drive.

While the Russians consolidated their Oder river positions for a frontal assault due east of Berlin, the new Soviet gains to the south increased the peril to the German capital by clamping a hold on a 37-mile section of the Berlin-Breslau trunk railway and threatening momentarily to spill across the four-lane superhighway between the two cities.

Konev's big drive and the capture yesterday of Deutsch-Krone, Nazi citadel and 12-way road hub in Pomerania, by units of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army, prompted the Moscow radio to declare early today that Hitler's war machine has been smashed and cannot stand up to the continuous, widening Soviet pressure.

That pressure, stepped up by the Russians during the week-end, brought other important gains at the northern and southern anchors of the 800-mile eastern front.

A Swiss radio report today said Soviet troops had swept to the outer defense area of Danzig after capturing Elbing. To the south in Polish Silesia the Russians, by official Moscow account, drove to within 25 miles of Moravska Ostrava, the Pittsburgh of Czechoslovakia.

Konev's great Silesian offensive, meanwhile, was folding the German southern flank back against the mountainous Sudeten frontier of Czechoslovakia and threatening to cut communications between that occupied country and Berlin.

The Russian radio reported that the capture of the city of Danzig, after capturing Elbing, to the south in Polish Silesia the Russians, by official Moscow account, drove to within 25 miles of Moravska Ostrava, the Pittsburgh of Czechoslovakia.

Konev's great Silesian offensive, meanwhile, was folding the German southern flank back against the mountainous Sudeten frontier of Czechoslovakia and threatening to cut communications between that occupied country and Berlin.

PLANS AT POST—German prisoner of war, one of 75,000 captured soldiers now working for Uncle Sam's Army, practices his trade in the drafting room of the post engineer at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana. Of approximately 350,000 prisoners held in the United States, 306,000 were Germans, 51,000 Italians, and 2400 Japanese.

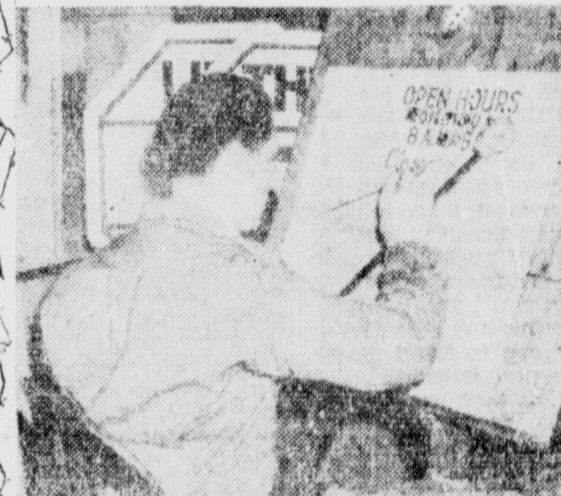

WELFARE OFFICER—Protected personnel such as medical corpsmen and chaplains, who are not combat troops, are employed in looking after welfare of fellow prisoners. German Army doctor at Glenn General Hospital, Okmulgee, Okla., collects blood from a war prisoner, to be used in giving transfusions to other German prisoners.

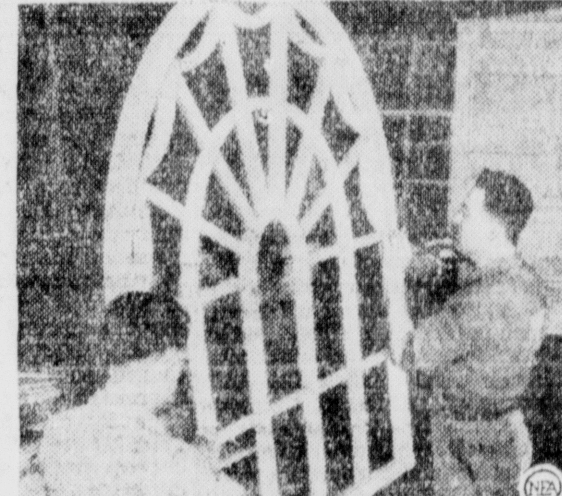

DOWN IN DIXIE, war prisoners help in harvesting cotton. More than half of the 45,000,000 man-days of work contributed in the United States alone, have been devoted to relief of agricultural manpower shortage. Prisoners also harvest peanuts, rice, citrus fruits, vegetables, sugar cane, and potatoes. Prisoner of war labor is divided into two classes: Work done on contract for private employers and work not directly related to the war effort, done for the Army on Army posts and camps. Men employed by private industry receive 80 cents a day in commissary and canteen scrip, plus food and lodging. Balance of pay, at going rates for each business, is deposited in U. S. Treasury.

BEAUTIFY ARMY POST—Skilled carpenters, representing one of 160 special skills of war prisoners, build a window frame for an Army camp. Army places no monetary value on services of war prisoners.

SIGNS OF WAR TIMES—In perfect English, a German prisoner of war letter to an Army post sign. Prisoner of war program finds and develops special skills and fits men into jobs for which they are qualified.

METZGER-WRIGHT®

enough for good stage productions and really worthwhile concerts . . . The war has been an effectual quietus on the VFW park and swimming pool in Pleasant township, and what a swell thing that would be for the community . . . Over in Coudersport the men of the town all pitched in and built one. Just an idea.

Some time ago we remarked that about the first automobile to cavort on the streets of Warren was a tiny runabout that was brought here with Hi Henry's Minstrel Show. It was a feature of the parade and while the band played in front of the Savings Bank some fellow drove the automobile about in the snow there. It was a wonderful thing and few folks heard the band as they were so busy watching the auto. And now in the Jamestown Post-Journal comes the following relative to Hi Henry, who annually played Warren, Sheffield and other towns in this section:

"Hiram M. Henry, widely known as 'Hi' Henry, was a native of Gowanda who played a cornet in one of the Union Army bands during the Civil War, and later for many years was a well-known figure in the minstrel world with his own company, including a famous band. He was a natural musician and was recognized when in his prime as one of the foremost cornet soloists in the country. Every summer he would assemble his company at Gowanda, taking the road with his troupe as soon as the fall theatrical season began. His minstrels filled an annual engagement here for a long period of years and, no doubt, many hundreds of our readers will recall him in resplendent uniform leading the street parade on a silver-plated bicycle and later in an elaborate automobile made especially for show purposes. Then, at the evening show he would blossom out in full dress, with a large diamond in his shirtfront and another in a ring. He died in 1920."

Up in the public library is a collection of programs of theatrical attractions that showed at Library Theatre from the time it was opened until a few years ago. The collection was made by the late W. A. Alexander. From the programs one can rather than the shows presented Warren with the best actors and actresses that were on the road . . . The other night we sat beside Otto Peterson, of the Forge, at a dinner and he enjoyed his eats. Now comes word that his son, Cpl. Fred Peterson, is in Belgium and enjoys the new "C" rations, which contain meat, noodles, etc. From the accent on the eats, we take it Fred is just a chip off the old block . . . Sara McCormick, of Youngsville, is "fixin'" to celebrate her 105th birthday on February 14. "Aunt Sara" is undoubtedly the oldest woman in the county.

There are a lot of folks working for the Bell Telephone Company here and it's one of the things in Warren that goes ahead every day and few give it much attention. Among promotions made here recently by the company is that of Esther E. Snyder to senior operator . . . And in a current issue of the Bell Telephone News is a picture of Sergeant Carl L. Matson, of the Warren plant, taken in New Foundland with a boy friend. He has been located two years in New Foundland . . . School boys and girls are doing some excellent war work in the Victory shift at the Sylvania, where the hours are so arranged as not to interfere with school schedules. One day recently eight girls of a group of this shift turned out more production in a shorter space of time than has been done by any shift at the plant. Tried to get the names of the girls, but was told their picture was going to be seen soon in The Beam, the Sylvania publication.

CONEWANGO UNION
Conewango WCTU members held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Ann Follett, 1017 Conewango avenue, opening with singing of "Let the Beauty of Jesus Be Seen in Me" and prayer by Mrs. Holt. She then presented Dr. H. A. Rhinard, of the First Lutheran church, who gave a helpful talk on the problems of the liquor traffic as it confronts us now and the issues which will be involved when the war ceases. Following his remarks he led in a closing prayer.
Mrs. Holt expressed appreciation for the talk and extended thanks to Dr. Rhinard as a representative of the Warren County Ministerial Association for that group's efforts in trying to help clean up gambling in the community. Mrs. Bessie Johnson presided for the business session, at the close of which refreshments were served by Mrs. Follett, assisted by Mrs. Grace Drum.

Gavin Assails Rubber Stamp Legislature

Washington, Feb. 9—(AP)—A despairing Republican member put the "rubber stamp" tag on the new congress.

"It looks to me," Rep. Gavin, (R-Pa.) told the house, "as though the executive branch of the government is about to swallow the legislative, and the old term 'rubber stamp' is to be with us for the next few years."

Reviewing recent legislative actions, he said:

"Last week in the work or jail legislation we heard about the scarcity of manpower.
"This week we had the farm census legislation to put some 28,000 to 30,000 men and women—now in productive enterprise—into non-productive enterprise to gather and compile farm statistics at a cost of some $14,000,000, x x x
"Won't the boys over there doing the fighting be pleased about that?"

Gavin asserted that house Democrats put over the farm census, determined that "bureaucracy must be maintained regardless of the cost and regardless of how much manpower and money it takes from the war effort.
"And I thought the new congress would have the courage of its convictions."

Chester Bowles, Director of the Office of Price Administration was a Boy Scout.
